Leader Influence, LLC

John Maxwell quotes, "Leadership is influence, nothing more, nothing less." Reflecting on his past leadership struggles, Denis Baker realized the relevance of John's quote. Without influence, there is no leadership. With no leadership, nothing worthwhile can be achieved. With an immense desire and passion for increasing his influence and helping others do the same, Baker started Leader Influence LLC and leaderinfluence.net (blog). Through these two platforms, he has taken his passion, conviction and desire for leadership to a higher level. In addition to his safety-related experience, Baker has become a respected leadership advisor and expert to many individuals, companies and organizations. He has a weekly LinkedIn post titled, Insights for Influence, where he provides realistic and achievable insights to increase one's influence. Baker is an executive director for the John Maxwell Group and a certified leadership coach, trainer, keynote speaker and DISC behavioral consultant. He currently serves as the national HSE leader for Ferguson Enterprises. Baker is a person of influence committed to teaching and communicating practical and relevant influencing techniques. His uniquely passionate and emotionally driven style resonates with many, creating a desire for change thus becoming a more effective leader.
